TO ADVERTISERS.

The attention of Advertisers is respectfully drawn to the fact that a copy of the China Mail has for some time past been placed on board of every Steamer and Sailing Vessel on arrival in this Harbour.

Facilities which have recently been placed within the reach of Captains and Officers of Ships have resulted in a material increase to the Subscription List of the Mail amongst the shipping in port; and as special arrangements have been made to increase the usefulness of the Shipping List and to extend the circulation in the Bay, these advantages will be at once apparent
to Advertisers.

Orders may be sent to
GEO. MURRAY BAIN,
China Mail Office.

The publication of this issue commenced at 7.45 p.m.

OPIUM IN THE INDIAN BUDGET.

In the Indian Budget for 1876-77, the following paragraph appears regarding the revenue from Opium:—

On the Revenue side, the first point to be noticed is that we have taken opium at six millions sterling net. It was mentioned in the last Financial Statement, that for several years the estimate for opium had never been put above five and a-half millions net, notwithstanding that the actual revenue year by year would have justified a much higher estimate; an increase of a quarter of a million was taken accordingly for 1876-77, placing the estimated net revenue for that year at five millions and three quarters. The Regular estimate justifies us in expecting a net revenue of £5,283,000, and this, as has already been shown, is in the face of some drawback. The average

1868-69	...	8,781,000 net
1869-70	...	8,181,000 net
1870-71	...	8,032,000 net
1871-72	...	7,557,000 net
1872-73	...	8,471,000 net
1873-74	...	8,224,000 net
1874-75	...	8,215,000 net
1875-76 (Regular estimate)	...	8,283,000 net
Average	...	8,284,000 net

never in any one year fallen as low as six millions; consequently, we have felt no hesitation in taking the Budget estimate for the coming year at six millions net. The increase has been taken by raising the receipts by £150,000, and diminishing the expenditure by £100,000. As opium is one means by which China is paid for the tea it gives to England, the difficulty in the exchange transactions with the East will probably tend to quicken the export of opium in the coming year; and this may be held an additional reason for taking a fuller estimate than hitherto. Looking to the past, there is every reason to anticipate that even this estimate will be exceeded; but as we are taking a quarter of a million more than we did last year, the excess on the estimate, whatever it may turn out, will of course be, by so much less—a point which must not be left out of view in judging of the margin on the entire Budget.

INQUEST.

An Inquest was held this afternoon (8th), at the Government Civil Hospital, on the body of one Wong Ah-oh, by Mr James Russell, Coroner, with Messrs J. V. Baird, E. Rose, and Joseph Britto, as Jury. The deceased met his death by the bursting of one of the boiler-tubes of the River steamer Kinshan on the morning of the 6th instant. The deceased was scalded to death almost instantaneously.

Dr. C. J. Wharry, M.D., Superintendent of the Government Civil Hospital was examined, and stated that the body of the deceased was brought in on the evening of the 6th. He examined it this morning. It was that of a Chinese male adult. The deceased was scalded over the head, a greater part of the body and extremities. He died of the shock from the scalding.

Charles V. Lang, Chief Engineer of the steamer Kinshan, was examined.—On the morning of the 6th inst., about twenty-three minutes after leaving the Wharf, the super-heater burst. It burst from long use, I should rather think. I was in the engine-room at the time. The steam escaped below and came out at the connection door. There was another engineer in the engine room, but he was not on watch. The steam spread over the main-deck. I got my hand scalded in trying to reach the valve to shut it. I saw the deceased after his death. This was after all the excitement was over, and the passengers had been transferred. I did not know then that the accident was caused by the super-heater bursting. We came to anchor after this. The I-chang was close by and stopped to take over our passengers. We discovered after search where the accident took place. We came back after this with one boiler. At the time of the accident, the rate of our speed was 20 revolutions, that gave us a speed of 15 miles an hour. We were going with 25 lbs. of pressure. We have been going at 19 to 20 revolutions for some time. I have been engineer in that ship since 1863. In 1864 we had been going at 24 revolutions. Our boilers were made to carry 40 lbs. pressure; they are three years old on the 14th March last. They were looked to a fortnight ago, but they were not tested then. This super-heater appeared to be as strong as any other portion of the machinery. The super-heater was not more liable to deterioration than any other part of the machinery. It had been examined last Sunday. The examination was done by the Whampoa Dock Company, and I consider the work of patching was properly done. I consider the particular repair would have lasted three years. A set of boilers would last for about 10 or 11 years in river steamers. The boilers we have are our second set; the first set, built in New York lasted 11 years. There are two super-heaters on board, one to each boiler. When we returned to Hongkong with our boiler that day, we carried 15 lbs. steam, with 12 revolutions.

By a juror.—When the boilers were new they would stand a test of 40 lbs. steam. I should have been confident in working them up to 30 lbs. at any time. There was no particular increase of steam put on that day because the I-chang was close at our heels. We have been carrying the same steam for some time. Since the I-chang came on the field, we have increased from 3 to 5 lbs. steam. The burst took place in the neighborhood where the repair had been made.

Lee A-yow, a cargo-boat owner, stated that on the 6th he was a passenger in the Kinshan in company with the deceased, a hawker of salt fish. They were sitting after the fire-hatch, close to the engine-room enclosure on the port side.

The exact position not having been clearly defined, Mr Russell thought it necessary to postpone the enquiry in order to see the steamer.

Chow A-yow, wife of the deceased, was examined. The deceased was 51 years of age. He went up to Canton on Saturday morning.

The Inquest was then adjourned till Wednesday next at 4 p.m. at the magistracy, the Jurors to rendezvous at the Government Wharf to cross over to the Dock to see the steamer.

Manila.

By the steamer Pasig we have received files of Manila papers up to the 5th instant, and from these we glean the following news:—

The Diario says: The mate of one of the British ships in port was stabbed in the abdomen the other night by one of the sailors of the same ship. No reason is ascribed for the dastardly act, which is now being investigated by the British Consul. The wounded man lies in a precarious state at the San Juan de Dios Hospital, and is well taken care of.

The Manila Races in honor of the Sulu troops came off on the 3rd instant. The Captain General Malcampo was present and distributed the prizes.

Thousands of pilgrims have visited the shrine of the Virgin at Antipolo.

The second volume of the Spanish translation of Dickens's David Copperfield has been published from the office of the Diario.

The Arrivada is advertised to leave for Cadix and Liverpool on the 20th instant.

From several of the provinces reports of murderous attacks, and robberies by highway men, are the only news received.

Police Intelligence.

(Before James Russell, Esq.)

May 8, 1876.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD.

Mr Robert Duncan, late Secretary to the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company, Limited, was summoned at the instance of Mr David Gillies, the present Secretary, for that he did "at various times within the four or five years past conspire, combine, confederate and agree with one Mr M. J. Rozario, late book-keeper to the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company, Limited, to defraud the said Company by surreptitiously and for their own profit and advantage selling or purporting to sell under other names, goods and chattels, consisting of sheathing metal, timber, paint, and other articles, used by the said Company in its trade and business of Dock Owners and Ship-builders; and further did fraudulently represent to the said Company that certain goods were sold and supplied for the use of the said Company, which were not supplied, and the value of which was fraudulently appropriated by the said Robert Duncan and M. J. Rozario."

Mr M. J. Rozario was arrested on a warrant, and a charge in similar words was preferred against him.

Mr Brereton appeared for the prosecution.

Mr Kingmill, instructed by Mr Denny, appeared for the defence of Mr Duncan, and Mr Handley, instructed by Mr Holmes, for Mr Rozario.

Mr Brereton, in opening the case for the prosecution, said, the charge against the defendants was that at various times within the last four or five years they did conspire, combine, confederate and agree together to defraud the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company by surreptitiously and for their profit and advantage selling or purporting to sell under other names goods and chattels consisting of sheathing metal, timber, paint and other articles used by the said Company in its trade and business of Dock Owners and Ship-builders, and that further they did fraudulently represent to the Company that certain goods were sold and supplied for the use of the Company which were not supplied, and the value of which was fraudulently appropriated by the defendants for their own use. The defendant, Mr Robert Duncan, was formerly for many years employed as dockman ship-builder and manager of the Dock at Kowloon. About four years ago, he was promoted to the position of Secretary of the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company for the last five years. Mr Brereton would show to the Court distinctly that these two men had conspired to defraud the Company in selling goods belonging to themselves or one of them to the Company at a profit in the names of other people. Emboldened by their success, they charged the Company for goods which were purported to have been sold to the Company, but which in reality the Company never had. As to the first charge, if he could satisfy the Court that these two men or either of them had been supplying goods belonging to them to the Company at a profit in the names of other people, he could bring the matter within the criminal law, and could sustain the charge of conspiracy. It was very well settled that when two or more persons conspired and worked together to do another person a civil injury, although the civil injury was not in itself a criminal offence, the conspiracy was a criminal act. He would show that on one occasion at least goods which were purported to have been sold to the Company, did not exist at all. The Company was in the habit of buying wood and other things of merchants here for the use of the Company, and among others, a quantity of teak-wood was bought of Mr Degener. Previous to July 1874 the Company made a purchase of teak-wood from Mr Degener, and about the same time, another purchase was made of Messrs Lane, Crawford & Co., so that at this time the Company was well-stocked with teak-wood and did not require to buy any more. In July 1874 Mr Duncan himself bought a quantity of teak-wood from Mr Degener. He bought 94 crooks and 774 planks, altogether 868 pieces. Having been counted and measured, they were stored in a shed close to the water's edge in Kowloon Dock, not on behalf of the Company, but on behalf of Mr Duncan himself, until September 1874, when one night a typhoon came over and swept the whole pile into the water. Some planks were recovered afterwards, but the greater part was lost. This state of things remained the same until January 1875. With regard to the purchases from Mr Degener, and Messrs Lane, Crawford & Co., the payments were made in the usual way, the practice was for the vendors to send in their bills, which were then submitted to the Directors, whose sanction having been obtained, the Secretary then initiated them and authorized payment. Now Mr Duncan having lost his teak-wood, thought it most convenient to charge the Company with the purchase. There was a contractor named Aing, who contracted to supply the Company with labour. The practice of payment was that all the coolies employed were included in the pay-list under the name of Aing, who then paid the men he had employed. These accounts were then submitted to the Directors, by whom they were passed, having been certified as being correct by the Secretary. In the accounts for January 1875 there was an item in Aing's bill for 94 crooks at $687. They were represented as having been sold by Aing to the Company, but Aing would prove that he had never sold a single piece of wood to the Company, and that the $687 were actually paid to Mr Rozario. In the account for April 1875 the remainder of the timber Mr Duncan had bought of Mr Degener was absorbed into Aing's bill, the quantity being 8049 cubic feet at $1 each.

Mr Russell asked what was the price Mr Duncan paid to Mr Degener.

Mr Brereton replied that it was 85 cts. Now the measurement of the wood charged in the bill coincided with the 784 planks he bought of Mr Degener. Thus the defendant not only charged the Company with the whole of the wood lost in the typhoon, but he made a profit of 15 cts a foot. There were other transactions connected with this case, but it would be more convenient to get through one point before taking them up. Mr Brereton then proposed to call Mr Degener. He would also mention that when the present Secretary took over the management of the Company's business, he looked into the books, and the stock given there was something like 7,000 feet, while the actual quantity in store was 2,000 feet.

Mr Degener was then examined. I am a merchant here. I have made sales of teak-wood to the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company. I made a sale in April 1874. (Press-copy of invoice put in.) On the 6th February 1874 I sold 16 teak logs and 26 teak planks to the Dock Company, measuring 807 cubic feet. On the 4th March I sold 23 teak logs and 574 teak planks, measuring 2,731 cubic feet. The first sale was at $1 a foot; the second at 80 cents. I sold some teak-wood to the Foochow Arsenal the same year; also to Mr Robert Duncan.

Mr Brereton asked the date of the sale to Mr Duncan.

Mr Kingmill objected to any reference to the press-copy. The original should have been produced.

Mr Kingmill, and he could produce it.

Mr Kingmill replied that he had no notice to do so. Even if he had it in his pocket, he was not bound to produce it. If Mr Brereton served the proper notice, he would ask the original to be searched for.

Mr Brereton contended that the press-copy in the witness's possession was the witness's original. Finally it was decided to postpone the examination of Mr Degener on this point till some other time.

Continued: The wood was delivered to Mr Duncan. The wood was piled up near the Bowring Canal. The price I charged was 85 cents a cubic foot. The delivery was made near Easton's yard. I do not know where the wood was taken to. I was paid by a cheque for the wood I sold to the Dock Company.

The witness was not cross-examined.

Mr Brereton proposed to call two other witnesses who were in the employ of the Dock.

Mr Kingmill applied that the case should be adjourned. He was acting for the Attorney General during his absence, and he must file the informations of the Criminal Sessions to-day. He was not asking the adjournment for his own convenience, but for the public service.

Mr Brereton would like to consult the convenience of Mr Kingmill if he could. But he thought it would be prejudicial to the Company to have the case postponed at this juncture. Having regard to the interest of his client he could not consent to postpone now, however much he might be inclined to oblige Mr Kingmill.

Mr Kingmill repeated that he did not make the application for his own convenience but for the public service. Mr Brereton knew that, having been told so, and he (Mr K.) would never have resisted such an application under similar circumstances.

Mr Brereton said that he had reasons for objecting to adjournment at this stage; he was not at liberty to say what they were, but the examination of the two witnesses would not last long.

Mr Kingmill said he must leave now at all hazards. He could not stay any longer.

Mr Russell observed that Mr Kingmill's absence would not be of much consequence as there were counsel connected with the case.

Mr Handley observed that it might turn out that their clients' interests might be distinct from each other.

Mr Brereton pressed for the continuation of the case, whereupon Mr Kingmill withdrew.

Mr Denny then applied for adjournment on the ground that he was only instructed yesterday, and that he had not mastered the facts of the case.

Mr Russell remarked that if the application for adjournment was put in that form, he was bound to grant it. It was different when made as a matter of personal convenience.

The case was then adjourned till tomorrow at 10.30 a.m.

Mr Brereton asked that the defendant might be put on heavy bail.

Mr Denny urged that Mr Duncan should not be placed on bail, he having appeared on a summons.

After some discussion Mr Duncan was not called upon to give bail.

Mr Brereton, in reply to the Court, said he asked as bail for Mr Rozario, two sureties of $5,000 each.

Mr Handley objected to the amount as being heavy. The defendant had property in the Colony.

Mr Brereton observed that he would then have no difficulty in getting bail.

After further discussion, bail for Mr Rozario was fixed at $5,000, in two sureties of $2,500 each.

(Before the Hon. C. May.)

PUTRID MEAT.

Saw-a-Chio, a butcher at the Central Market, was charged with exposing for sale a quantity of beef unfit for food. It stank very badly. Mr G. Saunders, the Usher of the Court, corroborated the evidence of Sergeant Quinny, acting Inspector of Markets. Fined $20, in default one month's hard labour.

A FALSE CHARGE.

Chun Chi Hin, a school-boy, was charged with stealing some pieces of clothing from one Ng-a-Kow, who represented himself as a student in the Central School. It turned out, after a somewhat close examination, that the charge was false. The complainant had borrowed some pieces of clothes of the defendant, and when he was asked to return them, he said he had no money and gave defendant a ticket for a jacket which he had pawned himself, telling the defendant that he could have the jacket if he redeemed it. Mr F. Stewart, the Head Master of the Central School, stated that the complainant was not a student in the school, having been expelled therefrom within the last two months. The defendant was discharged, while the complainant was fined $25, in default two months' hard labour.

CUSTOMS REGULATIONS OF THE PORT OF HAI-PHONG.

The Government Gazette publishes for general information the following copy of an Extract from the General Regulation of Customs Houses concerning merchant ships and steamers, in reference to the port of Hai-phong:—

Art. 1.—The port of Hai-phong is limited between the fort situated on the right bank of the Coa-cam, opposite the arroyo of Vang-chau, and the fort up the river of the arroyo of Hai-phong, on the left bank of the Coa-cam.

Art. 2.—The anchorage place for stranger ships, extends itself in the Coa-cam between the two fortresses named; the Annamite and Chinese junks and barks shall anchor or moor in the arroyo of Hai-phong.

Art. 3.—At the arrival of every ship in the port, a Custom-house agent shall be put on board, to survey the operations of loading and landing, and in order to prevent all sort of smuggling. Captains of ships are bound to observe the regulation concerning the police and security of the port, so as the police regulations concerning their crews when they are on shore, and of which regulations, connexion shall be given to them by the Harbour Master.

Art. 4.—It is absolutely forbidden to import into Tonkin, fire-arms and war ammunitions. Are considered as prohibited goods: Cannons and all artillery arms, their carriages, tools and additions, bullets, bombs, small bombs, and others. Gunpowder. Fire arms, guns, revolvers and others. Swords, halberds, bayonets, pikes and others. Saltpetre. Military pieces of furniture for encampment, and tools manufactured for war purpose. All infringement to the present article entitles to a fine varying from fifty to five hundred dollars.

Art. 5.—Every ship shall receive at Hai-phong, at due time, an order specifying the number of fire-arms and war ammunitions being on board. This quantity and number shall have to be produced again at her departure, and must agree with the order, except when the uses made of them has been legally justified, under a penalty of a fine of one hundred dollars for the infringement, and legal proceedings in the case foreseen for the sales of gunpowder and war ammunitions. The ship being in infringement to this regulation shall be detained till the fine is paid, and that the charge has been cleared.

Art. 6.—Twenty-four hours from the arrival of a stranger ship in the port, the captain is bound to deposit the ship's papers and the manifest at the French Consulate. If in the forty-eight hours from the arrival, the above said paragraph has not been observed, the captain shall be liable to a fine of fifty dollars per day of delay, to the profit of the customs. The said fine shall not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars.

Art. 7.—The captain is answerable for the regularity of the manifest, which must reproduce the marks, numbers, contents, and value of each coil. The captain shall be liable to a fine of five hundred dollars if he offers a false manifest, but he shall be allowed to rectify the mistakes in the twenty-four hours that shall follow the remittance of the said manifest in the hands of the French Consul, without being liable to this fine. When a part of the cargo shall be declared for re-exportation the specification must be made on the manifest. The ship shall be security for all the fines incurred during the course of these operations. She will be allowed to sail from the port only after the full payment of these fines.

Art. 8.—Only under special leave, no shipping or landing cargo or ballast, can take place, without the anchorage limits, and only from sunrise to sunset, Sundays and feast days are excepted.

Art. 9.—Within the twenty-four hours from the time the captain shall have handed to the French Consul the ship's papers, the Consul shall send to the custom house in duplicate a detailed list; giving the name of the ship, the crew list, the legal tonnage of the ship, and the cargo list.

Fire-arms and war ammunitions that merchant ships may have on board for their own use and safety, must be declared number by number on the ship's papers; at the same time that the figures of the cargo, at their arrival in the port or to the custom house; after that the Consul shall have handed to the custom house the detailed list, the surveyor of the custom house department shall deliver the order for landing, under reservation that the goods landed cannot be taken away under a penalty of a fine varying from fifty to five hundred dollars, according to the case, only after the proof that the duties claimed have been paid.

Art. 10.—The goods shall be verified on a designate place, according to the Consul's detailed list, and the custom house officers shall have the liberty of asking for the opening of the cases, sacks, bales and other colis, and to ask for them to be weighed, in case that the specification given by the Consul's list should seemed insufficient or incorrect.

Art. 11.—After the expiration of the two days specified in the Articles 6 and 9 and before the landing is to take place, every merchant ship shall be bound to pay the full amount of duties for light house and anchorage, already fixed by Article 3 of the treaty.

Art. 12.—Every exporter of goods shall be obliged before beginning the discharging to make a declaration of the said to the French Consulate, which shall send the detailed list to the custom house, where an order for shipping shall be delivered.

The custom house surveyor shall afterwards proceed to the inspection of the goods according to the terms prescribed for the entries.

Art. 13.—When the ship shall have finished her loading, the captain or the consignee shall be bound to deposit to the custom house a detailed manifest of the export cargo. The captain who shall deposit a false manifest shall be liable to a fine of five hundred dollars.

Art. 14.—All cargo landed or shipped without an order from the custom house shall be liable to seizure; and also all goods shipped from a ship to another without a special order. These infringements shall be subject to a penalty of a fine varying from fifty to five hundred dollars.

Art. 15.—No captain of a merchant ship can receive his papers and sail from the port if he has not proved to the Consul that all the custom house duties have been fulfilled, and that the amount of duties have been paid to the full amount.

Art. 16.—For the goods carried from one place to another in the Chinese provinces of Yunnan towards the sea, or from the sea to Yunnan, the duties shall be received by the first Annamite custom house.

Concerning merchant ships sailing to Yunnan, the captain or his supercargo, shall deliver the ship's papers, manifests, and bills of lading, to the Consul at Hai-phong, who shall send without delay to the custom house office, a detailed list of the goods on which the duties are to be paid according to the indications registered on this list.

But in case of suspicion of fraud, the custom house shall have the liberty of ordering the landing of the goods in order to have them examined. When the duties shall have been paid in the hands of the Annamite officer, the custom house shall state to the fact by a certificate which production shall be sufficient to establish that the duties on the said goods have been paid, and that there is nothing to be claimed for their exportation.

Art. 17.—The reductions on the duties by reason of damages foreseen by the last § of Article 17 of the Treaty of Commerce, are not to be applied in any case to export goods. For the import and transit, these compensations cannot be allowed as far as the damage sustained shall have taken place during the passage, from the last port of shipping, and shall be the result of sea event regularly established by the ship's papers.

Art. 18.—It is strictly forbidden to throw in the river sand, stones, or other kind of ballast; which shall have to be landed in places pointed out by the harbour master.

All infringement to this regulation shall be liable to a fine varying from fifty to one hundred dollars.

Art. 19.—It is strictly forbidden to captains and masters to leave the anchorage place which has been given to them, without an order from the harbour master.

All infringement to this regulation is liable to a fine varying from ten to twenty dollars.

Art. 20.—If an infectious or epidemic disease breaks on board of a ship anchored at Hai-phong, the captain is bound to make an immediate declaration to the harbour master, and to comply himself to the rules and regulations of the public health, which shall be ordered to him.

If a death occurs on board of a merchant ship anchored at Hai-phong, either among the crew or passengers, the captain is bound to make the immediate declaration to the harbour master, and to comply himself to the regulations and rules of public order established to that occasion.

All infringement to this article is liable to a fine varying from fifty to one hundred dollars.

Art. 21.—The light and anchorage duties are fixed to three-tenths of a ton of capacity for ships coming in and sailing out of the port with a cargo, and to fifteen hundredths of a ton per ton for ships coming in on ballast and sailing off on ballast.

Are considered as being on ballast, ships whose cargo is inferior to the twentieth of their capacity and in encumbrance, and to five francs per ton in value.

Art. 22.—Every pilot, light house guardian, &c., proved guilty of fraud or of having facilitated the same shall be immediately suspended from his duties by the custom house officer or surveyor, till his repeal has been ordered by the Consul, and without injuries to pecuniary penalties stipulated by the treaty.

Art. 23.—The Custom-house Office are opened for business purposes every day, from eight o'clock to half past ten in the morning; and from two o'clock to five in the evening, are excepted Sundays and holidays.

SHANGHAI.

(N. C. D. News.)

The Ningpo correspondent of the Courier says, "It is reported that some of the crew of the lorcha Mandarin, which was pirated some time ago, have been captured; and it is expected that all of those who assisted in murdering the captain, and running away with the lorcha, will be brought to justice."

—The "some time ago" should have been "three years," during the greater part of which time this foul act of murder and piracy was allowed to sleep. It is, to say the least of it, somewhat singular that just at the time the British fleet in these waters has received orders from home to co-operate with the German squadron in regard to the murders and piracy on board the German vessel Anna—which, so to speak, only happened yesterday—the perpetrators of the Mandarin outrage should be likely to be brought to justice. While not objecting in the slightest to British vessels being directed to aid in carrying out Prince Bismarck's instructions, we cannot help thinking that, if, on the occasion of the murder of Captain Main, who was a British subject, the British fleet had been instructed to assist in the discovery by the Chinese authorities (just as the Germans are doing in the Anna case) of the murderers and pirates, and also on the payment of the 7,000 or 15,000, the value of the Mandarin and her cargo, justice would have been satisfied long ago. However, better late than never.

SOOCHOW.

The city is full of rumours about 剪猪子 "cut off the pig-tail." But the foundation of these idle tales no one has traced. Wherever you go, you hear men talking about it, but no one has been seen "queeneless," and though you ask from teacher to teacher, no one has any interpretation to put upon the words. It is however evident that the people are on the qui vive on the subject.—N. C. D. News.

The Straits.

Our Singapore files extend to the 25th April.

The Spanish mail steamers which have hitherto run in connection with the outward French mail steamers will in future be associated in connection with the steamers of the P. & O. Company. The Spanish mail steamer Paragua, Captain Elizalde, from Manila with dates to the 19th arrived at Singapore on the 26th and owing to the new arrangement did not sail on her return voyage to the same port till after the arrival of the next outward P. & O. mail.

The requirements of this Settlement in the way of horseflesh seem to have grown enormously of late years. During the past two months over 100 newly arrived horses have been sold at open auction in the square, all realising high average prices. On the 21st April no less than 50 horses were disposed of in this manner, and notwithstanding previous heavy rain, brought an average of about $156 each.

Among the number was a thoroughbred named Dandy, well known at the Western Australian turf, which sold for $480. This horse, we believe, will put in an appearance at the forthcoming race meeting.

H. M. Gunboat Shidra, Captain Hays, from Plymouth anchored in the Roads on the 27th April, en route to the China station to join the British Squadron there.

Captain Plochet of M.M. steamer Emmer, reported having spoken with the British ship Mulrah in Banca Strait on 24th April, from Eyder bound to Singapore.

The French steam transport La Creuse, Captain Orel, from Bordeaux with dates to the 20th March, via Port Said, Aden and Suez, arrived at Singapore on 27th April, en route to Saigon, for which port she has 899 civil and military passengers.
